Housing and health happen through partnerships.

How We Partner

City of Austin

Provides significant funding through bonds and general fund dollars to expand housing and services.

Communities for Recovery

We partner to support individuals who experience homelessness and substance use disorder through peer coaching. We also provide funding for peer support services.

CommUnityCare

We partner to provide integrated primary care and behavioral health services within CommUnityCare and Integral Care clinics.

ECHO

We partner to monitor and ensure best practice interventions for our homeless community. We provide funding for coordinated assessments and community coordination efforts.

Goodwill

Provides employment services to individuals experiencing homelessness.

Landlords

We partner with Travis County landlords and apartment associations to make available safe and affordable housing to individuals experiencing homelessness.

Mobile Loaves & Fishes

Integral Care operates the Topfer Health Resource Center and provides behavioral healthcare services at Community First! Village.

Travis County

Provides funding that helps prevent homelessness and diverts individuals from the criminal justice system.
